

Interactive Glossary Definition Tell a Friend About This Site

Micelles -- Tiny emulsified fat packets. They are composed of emulsifier molecules (phospholipids) oriented with their fat-soluble part facing inward and their water-soluble part facing outward toward the aqueous environment

▶ Home

▶ eLearning

Animated Flashcards
Interactive Glossary
Interactive Summaries
Practice Quizzes
Web Exercises
Content Links
Study Question Answers

▶ Instructor Resources

Diet Analysis Software
Sample Chapters
Instructor Supplements
Distance Learning
About the Author Team

▶ NutriZone

Health and Nutrition Directory
Share Healthy Recipes
Nutrition Links
BMI Calculator
Chemistry Review

Search by term: (please enter only one word or partial word)

Or browse the terms alphabetically:

Show all terms that begin with the letter:

Or browse the terms by Chapter:

Show all terms in:

Back to Interactive Glossary Main Page

© Copyright 2003 Jones and Bartlett Publishers
Contact webmaster@jbpub.com

Glossary & References / Keywords List / Definitions:

Term to be defined	Definition	Synonyms & Keywords
Micelles	- "an aggregate of molecules in a colloidal solution, such as those formed by detergents ." (B125)

Subject: Rosettes

A group of organs or other body features, such as leaves or hair, which are clustered and crowned around a common point of attachment.